He persuaded his Fort Wayne partner, Samuel E Morss to make the vesiture with him. They sold their Fort Wayne interests, went to Kaness City and started the Evening Star as a four page afternoon newspaper, on September 18, 1888. Mr. Morse withdrew from the enterprise after a few months.

Almost from the first lasue the Star urged the seressity of passing the streets of getting a park system, of building attractive houses, of planting shrubbery and trees. Mr. Nelson himself had the trees set along the first Ennan City voulevard.

One of his achievements was the residence district which he laid out near his home as an example of what near his home as an example of what could be done toward city heartification. He leads nearly 10s modest houses along roads which he lined with stone walls covered with homesuckles and crimson ramblers. He was intensely intrested in fine pictures and he made a collection of toproduction of European masterpieces.

Local applications may do some good, but they cannot perminently relieve. The disease will cantinue to amony, pain and perhaps agenize, until the blood has been purified and the general health improved.

The elty election Tuesday was without interest and the vote was light in all of the precincts, campaign manager Eugens L. Harris, of the anti-ring organization, declared. A little scratching developed at precinct No. 17, the Neff-Stiles company's office, when the name of Tom Lea was scratched from the ballots and that of mayor Helly substituted. However, there was no organized effort to scratch the bominee's name from the ticket, the supervisors declare, and the scratching caused the Lea organization no worry. W. G. Jolly was also scratched on a few ballots in No. 16, which is at the Gas company's office.

It will cost you 20 cents to make the trip on automobiles of the "fair weather" opposition,

Would such a service have helped El Paro to grow into prospered as they have, under such a transportation system? You do not have to think, to answer no. The street car lines that could be depended upon-and can be depended upon now-made it possible to develop the suburbs of El Paso.

The suburbs of El Paso have made El Paso.

With a dependable street car service, operated upon regular schedules, the people were able to build their homes where the ground cost was not prohibitive; where they could have room enough for flowers and for their children to play. The fact that they could get to or from the city for five cents: that the cars operated upon a regular schedule, gave these people the confidence to invest in these additions and build their homes. El Paso as a result, is the greatest city of home owners in the country for its population. Home owners make any city; statistics prove that cities are most prosperous where the percentage of home owners is greatest.

Statistics also prove that suburban property with a street car service is several hundred times more valuable than suburban property without such a service. Therefore, the street car line to YOUR suburb, is worth just so many dollars in gold to you; it is MONEY TO YOU to help keep it operating. Let the street cars stop operating to the subushs and see what propcity would be worth. The El Paso Electric Railway company is not threatening to stop operating its cars. It is merely making a fair appeal to you; that is all. This company has built its lines to your suburbs; it is operating them, your property is benefiting. As the patronage of the lines increase, it will be possible for the company to increase its schedules and improve the service. A better schedule is worth more dollars and cents to you when you want to sell your property; you

Every cent contributed to the opposition service—a car may be here today, somewhere else tomorrow-every cent contributed to that sort of "transportation" is taken from the legitimate earnings of the street car company and cripples it just that much. What do the jitne car drivers promise you? What do they give you? They give you as short a ride as they can for your five cents. When the last passenger outbound is dumped out, they turn back and pick up more-the shorter the haul, the more they make; the less gasoline is used, the less wear on the tires and machinery. You may be waiting near the end of the line, and you may wait and wait in vain, but if there are nickels between you and the city, you can have your trouble for your pains. Mr. Fair Weather transportation man is going to make hay while the sun shines.

The street cars operate to the end of every line on every trip-everything is a "long haul" for the street car company. Everything is a "short haul" for the jitnes. It is not a fair competition in the first place.

You will recall that when the five-cent automobiles first began operating some carried signs "To Manhattan Heights" and others carried signs "To Highland Park." Do you see these signs any more? No. They cannot survive and operate on the "long hauls," yet when you patronize the nickel autos downtown and take the street cars to the suburbs, you are in effect saying to the street car company: "You must carry me on the long trips, where you lose money, where competition cannot operate, but I will spend my nickels with the opposition when I want the short rides." The nickel autos cannot survive on the long hauls, but the street car company is expected to.

What service do you think you would have to the suburbs with the jitne automobiles?

Are not the street cars worth conserving and patronizing, merely as a selfish matter if no other? Think it over.
